Introduction from Judith Hedgley, Chair of CIEH

Dear prospective candidate,

I am delighted that you are interested in finding out more about the vacant governance roles that we have at CIEH. We are the professional body for environmental health, established by Royal Charter “to promote, for the public benefit, the theory and science of environment health”.

The working environment in which our members (and the wider profession) operate has been changing at speed. Environmental health practitioners ensure that all the physical environments in which we work, eat, live and play are safe. They work in local authorities and government departments, retailers and hotel chains, regulators and enforcement agencies, the NHS and armed services, academia and the third sector, charities and global corporates.

Like many professional bodies CIEH is going through a period of transformation. The pandemic brought both challenges and opportunities for us, alongside a need to review again the way in which we operate and the best way in which we can protect the public and support the profession.

To help this work, we are now looking to make appointments to our Board. Details of the role and the work of the Board are outlined in this pack. In this recruitment round, roles are open to both members and non-members of CIEH.

Our Charter places an important obligation on us to act in the public interest; we are determined to do that in an open and transparent way. Alongside that, we want to ensure that those with governance roles reflect the diversity of the modern profession and the communities it serves.

Volunteers play a hugely important role in our organisation. If you would like to join the team leading and transforming CIEH, and the support that it gives to the profession, we would welcome an application from you. You can find out more about the role requirements in this pack.

Thank you for your interest and, if these roles are right for you, we look forward to receiving your application.

Judith Hedgley

About CIEH

CIEH is the professional body for environmental health representing over 7,000 members in the public, private and third sectors. Building on its rich heritage, CIEH ensures the highest standards of professional competence in its members, in the belief that through environmental health people's health can be improved.

Our vision is "safer, cleaner and healthier environments for the benefit of all". This guides all that we do across our broadly-based work in promoting standards and good practice, professional development, member services and our approach to learning and qualifications. We seek to influence public policy to help the profession achieve its aims.

Information about our mission, vision and strategy can be found at:

www.cieh.org/about-us/what-we-do/mission-vision-andcorporate-strategy/

Candidates without an environmental health background can read more about the profession at:

What is it like to take on a role in CIEH's governance?

Robert Easton

Rob joined what is now the Membership, Learning and the Profession Advisory Group in 2022 and has just been reappointed for a second term. He's Head of Consulting at Shield Safety, leading a team of Environmental Health Practitioners supporting businesses predominantly in the leisure, retail and hospitality sector to improve their safety performance and culture. He says "It is clear that the members of our advisory group are passionate about environmental health and supporting the next generation pursuing a career in the field. As a Chartered Environmental Practitioner who has worked in the public sector, but mostly in the private sector in the UK and abroad, I am learning so much about the strategic objectives of CIEH and enjoying making new contacts through the group".

Maria Jennings

Maria joined the Appointments and Remuneration Committee in 2023, having recently retired from the Food Standards Agency where she was the Director of Regulatory Compliance, People and Northern Ireland. As a Chartered Fellow of CIEH, Maria wanted to continue to make a contribution to the professional body that had supported her throughout her 35 year career in local and central government. She is passionate about building strong teams and feels that her role on the Committee allows her to help CIEH find the right people for key governance roles to strengthen CIEH for the future

Saravana Namasivayam

Saravana joined the Risk and Audit Committee in 2020 and was, subsequently, appointed to the Board of Trustees in 2023. Saravana has held previous roles in Government and has worked in financial services for the past 17 years. His experience has largely been in finance, risk and audit and transformation/change. He has also run a care home as Chief Operations Officer and Director and does extensive voluntary work with charities supporting the elderly and mentoring small entrepreneurial business owners. Saravana was attracted to the CIEH as it was an opportunity to share his skills and knowledge for the benefit of the profession, as well as to learn more about environmental health and bring this into his day job.

Vacant board roles

The Board of Trustees is the ultimate decision-making body of CIEH.

CIEH has a wholly owned subsidiary company (CIEH Limited), the directors of which are the members of the Board of Trustees along with the Chief Executive. Members are also appointed as trustees of the Environmental Health Officers' Welfare Fund. Around half of the Board also serve as members of a committee or advisory group.

The role of the Board is to:

- ensure that the organisation complies with its Charter, Byelaws, charity law and other relevant legislation or regulations.
- review and approve the strategic objectives of the organisation in collaboration with the Chief Executive and their management team.
- ensure that the needs of members and other stakeholders are considered.
- appoint the Chief Executive, co-opted Board members, defined committee and advisory group members.
- uphold and apply principles of equality and diversity.
- safeguard the wellbeing of CIEH's staff.
- approve the annual budget.
- ensure probity in all of CIEH's business operations.

Board members also play an important role in stakeholder communications, supporting the Executive team.

The Board aims to ensure that, amongst its members, it has the wide range of experience, capacity and skills needed to provide leadership to CIEH, support its Chief Executive and their team and ensure robust governance.

CIEH's Board consists of 13 trustees:

- President
- Nine trustees, elected by CIEH members
- Three co-opted trustees

The President and co-opted trustees are appointed by the Board, on the recommendation of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee (and, in the case of the President, a confirmatory vote of members).

This recruitment exercise is for two co-opted trustees and is open to both members of CIEH and non-members. Appointment to these roles will be from 1 September 2024.

The Board is keen to see applications from people with a wide range of backgrounds.

Particular areas of interest to it are:

- Experience of strategic financial management
- Commercial development experience
- Property strategy experience
